Regal GSX by SLP.
Wouldn’t you really rather own this Buick?

Wouldn’t you like to drive a midsize sports sedan that wraps you in luxury yet doesn’t cost a small fortune? Here it is, Regal GSX, all-new for 2003 and completely enhanced by the performance experts at SLP, America’s highest volume, niche vehicle car company. With available powertrains producing up to 270 horsepower and interior treatments usually only found on much more costly European sedans, GSX offers far more bang for the buck.

One test drive and you’ll likely agree that you’d really rather own this Buick. Available nationwide from your local dealer or by calling SLP at 1-800-533-5673.
Embracing a tradition of great midsize Buick sport coupes and sedans, such as the potent GS 400 models of the 1960’s, SLP’s GSX is bold and dramatic, even down to its custom exterior badge (std.).

One warning: Don’t be misled by these classic lines and refined features. Out on the road, GSX runs step-for-step with the much more expensive boys from Germany and the upstarts from Japan.

By carefully designing every component in the GSX base package and optimizing its impressive list of options, SLP had one goal in mind: to deliver the best value in an upscale American sports sedan.

At the end of the day, the only difference is the competition will be left scratching their head as you pull away in your GSX. Unexpectedly robust performance, balanced handling, rich interior appointments and surprisingly affordable. Just wanted you to know what to expect.

GSX speaks to the performance enthusiast who refuses to sacrifice ride quality and upscale interior appointments in his search for an exhilarating driving experience.

Optional 16” x 7” aluminum wheels with GSX (shown) or LSX logo center-caps are available in high luster silver or chrome finish.
Wraparound taillamps accentuated by GSX badges combined with an upswept spoiler (std.) enhance high speed handling. An optional Cat-Back Exhaust System and Underhood Cold Air Induction Package adds 15 horsepower.

A classy new front grille and badge help identify the sporty GSX.

An enhanced rear fascia helps showcase the aggressive exhaust system outlet tips. Also shown, at right, are optional chrome wheels.

Front to rear, GSX is true to its Buick heritage.
Performance without refinement and quality interior appointments is meaningless. That's why we listened to dealers and customers who asked for more in 2003.

New refinements like our optional high quality burled wood finish trim package for the steering wheel and shift knob make a great statement.

Back to the future...American muscle and midsize Buicks have always gone hand-in-hand.

What about the details? Well, every detail is important to SLP. That's why we offer accents like the GSX or LSX logo on the front seat headrests, as well as on the optional floormats and key chain.
